Page 6 — YOUR BABY'S 18-YEAR COST TIMELINE (THE BRIDGE PAGE)

This is the new content — the education gap seed.

Headline: From First Nappy to First Day of University — What It Really Costs

Content table:

Life Stage	Approximate Annual Cost (SG$)
Age 0–3: Infant care + baby needs	S$20,000–30,000/year
Age 4–6: Preschool + enrichment	S$10,000–18,000/year
Age 7–12: Primary + tuition	S$6,000–15,000/year
Age 13–17: Secondary + tuition	S$8,000–18,000/year
Age 18–22: University (local)	S$15,000–20,000/year
Age 18–22: University (overseas)	S$60,000–90,000/year

Pull stat: "Singapore families now spend S$1.8 BILLION on private tuition annually (2023). The average household spends S$105 per month on tuition alone." — Straits Times / HES 2023

Key message: "University fees have increased every single year since 2010. A local degree for your baby born today could cost S$80,000–120,000 by 2043. An overseas degree: S$250,000–400,000."

Design Note: This should feel informational, not alarmist. Use a calm blue/green colour palette. The goal is to plant the question: "Am I on track?" NOT to sell anything yet.

Page 7 — The Simple Funding Formula

This is the action bridge — creates the "I need a plan" moment.

Headline: How Much Do You Need to Set Aside Each Month?

Content — 3 scenarios:

If you start now (baby aged 0–1)	Monthly amount	Projected fund at 18
Conservative (savings account, ~1.5% p.a.)	S$800/month	~S$175,000
Moderate (investment mix, ~5% p.a.)	S$500/month	~S$175,000
Growth (equity-heavy, ~7% p.a.)	S$350/month	~S$175,000

Projections are illustrative only and not a guarantee of returns. Actual results will vary.

Key message: "The earlier you start, the less you need to set aside every month. Waiting 5 years to start could mean needing to save S$300 more per month to reach the same goal."

CTA: "Want a projection customised to your child's age and your target (local vs overseas)? Message me on WhatsApp — takes 10 minutes."

Design Note: Simple 3-row table is clean and scannable. The disclaimer is important (MAS compliance). The CTA should include your WhatsApp number as a clickable link.
