

Angle 2 — Follow-Up Scripts: CPF 55 Rule Change

Tone: Professional, calm, authoritative. Peer-to-peer but expert-led. This audience has dealt with sales pitches before and will exit immediately if they feel pressure. They value clarity and credentials.

Response Time Target:

- Priority leads (age 53–58, CPF $200k+): Within 5 minutes
 - Standard leads: Within 2 hours
 - Nurture leads: Within 24 hours

Step 1 — WhatsApp Opener (Send within 5 minutes)

Template A — Authority + Credibility First (Recommended)

Hi [First Name], this is [Your Name] — I'm a licensed financial adviser based in Singapore, and you just requested the CPF 55 Readiness Report.

Here's your direct download link: [PDF Link]

I created this specifically because the SA closure in January 2025 raised a lot of questions, and most of the generic CPF content online doesn't address what it actually means for individual situations.

Are you approaching 55, or have you already passed that milestone?

(Do not pitch anything in first message. Credential establishes trust. Question opens conversation.)

Template B — Problem-First (For leads who answered "CPF LIFE not enough")

Hi [First Name] — thanks for downloading the CPF 55 Readiness Report.

Here's your link: [PDF Link]

I noticed you mentioned CPF LIFE coverage being a concern. Page 4 of the report addresses that specifically — the gap between FRS payouts (~$1,600/month) and a comfortable retirement lifestyle is often bigger than people realise.

Happy to calculate your specific gap if that would be useful — takes about 15 minutes. No obligation.

Template C — Policy Change Hook (For leads who answered "don't understand SA closure")

Hi [First Name] — your CPF 55 Readiness Report is here: [PDF Link]

The report has a plain-English explanation of what the SA closure actually means — page 2 covers the key misconceptions. A lot of people thought their money "disappeared" when it didn't.

If you want me to walk through what it means for YOUR specific balance, I'm happy to do a 15-minute call. Just let me know.

Step 2 — Soft Qualification (When they reply)

If they engage, ask these in conversational flow (not all at once):

"Are you currently still working, or are you approaching retirement?"

"Do you have a rough sense of your CPF balance across your accounts? Just an approximate figure is fine."

"And when you think about retirement income — if you stopped working tomorrow, what monthly amount would you need to live comfortably?"

"Do you have investments or savings outside of CPF that you're planning to draw on?"

These 4 questions give you everything you need to decide:

- Whether they're worth booking a meeting
- What meeting framing to use
- What gap size you're dealing with

Step 3 — Meeting Booking Script

Once qualified, transition:

"Based on what you've told me, I think it would be worth doing a proper CPF Retirement Review. It's a 20–30 minute session where I pull your CPF projection, calculate your likely CPF LIFE payout, identify your gap, and show you the 2–3 options most relevant to your situation.

It's completely free. I'll be direct about what actually makes sense — and equally direct if I don't think anything needs to change.

Do you have time this week or next for a Zoom call?"

Step 4 — Meeting Confirmation

"Confirmed — [Day, Date] at [Time] on Zoom.

Link: [Zoom link]

Before we meet, could you fill in this short prep form? It has 3 questions about your CPF balances and retirement timeline, which means I can have your projection ready before we start:

Looking forward to it.

Step 5 — Meeting Opener (First 2 Minutes of Call)

"Thanks for joining — I'll keep this focused and useful. What I've done before this call is look at the general CPF LIFE projections for someone in your situation, and I'll walk you through what your numbers could look like.

My goal today is for you to leave knowing exactly what CPF LIFE may pay you, what gap that leaves, and what's worth considering. Whether we take it further after that is entirely up to you.

Sound good? Let's start with — what's your approximate RA or CPF balance today?"

Objection Handling

"I'm fine — CPF should be enough for me"

"That's a good position to be in. Out of curiosity, do you know roughly what your CPF LIFE monthly payout might be at 65? There's quite a range between BRS, FRS and ERS — just wanting to make sure 'enough' is based on the actual number and not a general assumption."

[If they don't know] "That's exactly what I can show you in 15 minutes — it's worth confirming before you assume."

"My son/daughter handles my finances"

"That's great — family involvement in retirement planning is always a good sign. Would it be possible to include them in the call? A 20-minute family session often gives everyone clarity on the plan going forward."

"I don't trust financial advisers"

"I completely understand that concern — the industry has a history of product-first advice. My approach is different: I don't recommend anything in the first session. It's purely a review and projection. If at the end you decide you don't need anything, I'll tell you that too. Would a 'no recommendation' first call feel more comfortable?"

"What are you selling?"

"Honestly, nothing in the first session. I earn commissions from financial products if a client eventually puts something in place — but that only happens if it makes sense for you. The CPF review itself is free, and there's no obligation afterward."

"I can't do Zoom — I'm not good with technology"

"No problem at all — we can do a phone call instead, or meet in person if you're based near [your area]. Which would be easier for you?"

WhatsApp Nurture Sequence (For leads who don't book immediately)

Day 3

"Hi [First Name] — just a quick data point: from January 2026, the CPF salary ceiling rises to S$8,000, and contribution rates for workers above 55 increase again.

If you're still working, this will affect how much flows into your CPF over the next few years.

Happy to show you the impact for your specific income if useful."

Day 7

"Hi [First Name] — one thing worth knowing: the window to make voluntary CPF top-ups (RSTU) at the current tax-relief rate is still open. Each year you delay means losing both the contribution and the 4% compound interest on it.

If you'd like to understand how that works for your situation, I'm happy to do a quick calculation."

Day 14 — Final

"Hi [First Name] — this will be my last follow-up for now. I'll leave it in your hands.

If you'd like to revisit the CPF retirement review at any point, you can book directly here: [Calendly link]

All the best,
