

Angle 3 — Follow-Up Scripts: Mid-career Financial Confidence Gap

Tone: Smart, peer-level, direct, slightly energising. This audience is digitally savvy and has seen too many financial ads. Sound like a smart friend who happens to be a financial expert — not a salesperson.

Critical Rule: Do NOT push a meeting on every lead. You MUST qualify first. Leads who don't meet the threshold (income S$8k+, investable assets S$10k+) go to nurture, not to your calendar.

Response Time Target:

- Priority leads: Within 5 minutes
 - Standard leads: Within 2 hours
 - Nurture track: Email auto-sequence; WhatsApp within 24 hours

Step 1 — WhatsApp Opener (Send within 5 minutes of form submission)

Template A — Audit Delivery + Curiosity Hook (Use for all leads initially)

Hey [First Name]! I saw you grabbed the Freedom Number Audit — here's your link:

[PDF Download Link]

The worksheet on page 4 is the one that actually gives you your number — most people find it's either less scary or more urgent than they expected.

Quick question: have you ever sat down and calculated what monthly passive income you'd actually need to stop depending on your salary?

(Conversational, peer tone. Doesn't mention FA/investment/sales in first message. Ends with a curiosity question.)

Template B — For leads who answered "have investments but no plan"

Hey [First Name] — your Freedom Number Audit is here: [PDF Link]

You mentioned having investments but no clear retirement plan. That's actually the most common situation I see — people doing SOMETHING, but without a target number, it's hard to know if it's enough.

The audit walks you through the calculation. Once you run your numbers, feel free to message me — happy to sense-check them.

Template C — For leads who answered "paycheck-to-paycheck"

Hey [First Name] — here's your Freedom Number Audit: [PDF Link]

You mentioned feeling financially stretched — that's more common than people admit in Singapore, and it's rarely about not earning enough.

Pages 1–3 of the audit cover exactly why that happens here (our cost structure is genuinely unusual), and the worksheet will show you if there's a gap to address — or if it's mostly lifestyle optimisation needed.

Let me know if it raises any questions.

Step 2 — Soft Qualification (When they reply)

Before booking any meeting, ask (conversationally, not all at once):

"Quick question — roughly what does your monthly household income look like? Just a ballpark is fine."

"And do you have any investments or savings outside of CPF and HDB? Even if it's a relatively small amount?"

"What's your rough target retirement age — or is it more of an 'as early as possible' feeling?"

Internal decision after their answers:

- Income S$8k+ AND assets S$10k+ → Invite to meeting
- Income S$4–8k AND assets S$10k+ → Conditional invite, frame meeting as exploration
- Below both thresholds → Offer webinar or send nurture sequence

Step 3 — Meeting Booking (Priority Leads Only)

Transition for qualified leads:

"Okay — based on what you've shared, I think it would be worth doing a proper Freedom Number session. I'd calculate your actual number using your real figures, show you your gap vs your current savings rate, and map out the 2–3 moves most relevant to your situation.

It's 30 minutes on Zoom, completely free. No product recommendations on the first session — just numbers and a clear picture.

Worth doing?"

If they say yes:

"Great. What works better — weekday evening or weekend? And Zoom or in-person in the CBD?"

[After they confirm]

"Perfect — I'll send the calendar invite now. I'll also send a short prep form (4 questions, 3 minutes) — having your numbers in advance means I can calculate everything before we meet and we hit the ground running."

Booking confirmation WhatsApp:

"Confirmed — [Day, Date] at [Time] on Zoom!

Link: [Zoom link]

Prep form (optional but highly recommended): [Link]

4 questions about your income, savings, and retirement timeline. Having this means I can prepare your personalised Freedom Number calculation before we start.

See you then!

— [Your Name]"

Step 4 — Meeting Opener Script (First 2 Minutes)

"Thanks for joining. I'll be upfront: this isn't a sales call. The only thing we're going to do today is calculate your Freedom Number — the specific monthly passive income you'd need for work to become optional — and see what your gap looks like.

If there's a fit to take it further after that, we can talk about what that looks like. But there's no recommendation today, just numbers.

Sound good? What figures did you come up with on the worksheet — or should we do it live together?"

Objection Handling

"I'm not sure I can afford to invest right now"

"That's worth exploring properly. Sometimes the issue is genuinely cash flow — and sometimes it's that money is going to the wrong places without a clear plan. Even if the answer is 'wait 6 months', it's worth knowing what you're waiting for.

Would a 20-minute call just to map it out be useful? No obligation to do anything — just clarity."

"I've heard too many pitches from financial advisers"

"I get that — the industry has a credibility problem. What I can offer is this: the first session is 100% diagnostic. I'll show you your numbers and explain your options. Whether you want to take it further is entirely your call. If you decide you don't want to do anything, I'll respect that.

Would a 'no recommendation' first call feel more comfortable to you?"

"I'll do it myself — I'm quite into personal finance"

"That's great — honestly the people who've read about FIRE and SG-focused investing are my favourite clients. They ask better questions. My value add is usually in the CPF/SRS optimisation, tax angles, and making sure the overall portfolio is coherent rather than a collection of random decisions.

Would a 20-minute sanity check be useful — just to make sure what you have built is consistent?"

"I need to talk to my spouse first"

"Absolutely — and these conversations are always better when both of you are in it. Would it be possible to find a time when your spouse could join the call? Even just for the first half?"

"I'm worried this is just about selling me insurance or ILPs"

"Legitimate concern. I'll be honest: if insurance ends up being part of the picture, I'll explain why — and if it doesn't make sense, I'll tell you that too. The first session has zero product recommendations. It's just your numbers. Does that work for you?"

Non-Meeting Track: Group Webinar Pitch (Nurture leads)

For leads below meeting qualification threshold:

"Hey [First Name] — based on what you've shared, the most useful next step might actually be a group session rather than a 1:1 right now.

I run a free monthly 'Freedom Number Workshop' — it's a 45-minute Zoom session where I walk through the audit live, answer questions about the Singapore-specific stuff (CPF, SRS, HDB), and people often leave with their number calculated.

Would that be useful? Next one is [Date] — happy to send you the link."

WhatsApp Nurture Sequence (Leads who don't book — 14-day sequence)

Day 3

"Hey [First Name] — one thing worth knowing: SRS (Supplementary Retirement Scheme) is probably the most underutilised tax tool for Singapore professionals.

If you're in the 15–22% tax bracket, a S$15,300 annual SRS contribution saves you ~S$2,295 in taxes AND grows your retirement fund. Most people in your income range haven't opened an SRS account.

Happy to explain how it works if you're curious."

Day 7

"[First Name] — quick data point: the biggest predictor of whether someone achieves financial independence in Singapore isn't their income.

It's whether they have a specific number they're working toward.

60% are living paycheck-to-paycheck. Most of them don't have a Freedom Number.

Did you end up calculating yours from the audit? Would be curious what you got."

Day 10

"Hey [First Name] — sharing this because it surprised a lot of people I've talked to:

At a 5% annual return, saving S$500/month for 20 years = ~S$206,000.

Saving S$1,000/month for 20 years = ~S$412,000.

The difference isn't just the extra S$500 — it's the compound. Starting earlier matters more than starting bigger.

If you want to see what YOUR specific trajectory looks like — what age you'd hit your Freedom Number at current savings rate — I can calculate that in 20 minutes. No strings."

Day 14 — Final touchpoint

"Hey [First Name] — this is my last message on this thread for now. I don't want to clog your inbox.

If the timing isn't right today, no problem at all. If this comes back onto your radar, you can reach me here: [WhatsApp] or book directly: [Calendly link]

All the best,
